Dear Parents and Carers,

This week the Book Trust launched its report "Reading Together, changing children's lives". At Carclaze we understand the importance of choosing to read and the impact it has on life chances. That is why we will always make developing reading for pleasure a high priority.

On Saturday 20th January we will be in the Old "Peacocks" shop running a book swap on behalf of St Austell Festival of Children's literature. Come and see us from 1-3 p.m.

Then, next Friday (26th January), we have a visit from Polar explorer and author Dr Huw Lewis Jones. You can order copies of his book on Parentpay, if you do it this weekend you can be guaranteed a signed copy.

Thinking ahead to World Book Day (7th March) we are focusing on the book Flooded by Maria Jo Ilustrajo. The characters are all animals so if you want to dress up then do so as an animal of your choice. Some headlines from the Book Trust report:

What is special about shared reading?

While reading in general has an impact on outcomes, three important ingredients that are specific to shared reading stand out from our research. When adults share picture books with babies and children, there are both immediate and long-term benefits:

- Physical closeness and shared attention: Sharing unhurried reading time is a perfect space for bonding and attachment. Sharing a point of interest with an adult teaches concentration, decoding and sensemaking.
- Enjoyment: When a child sees an adult getting involved and enjoying a story, they enjoy it too.
- Interaction: Interactive reading helps relationships form, and supports children's language and cognitive development, yielding benefits from as early as two weeks. An adult reading in this way involves the child as much as possible, letting a child grab and touch a book while paying attention to the child's responses and reactions.

Families know that reading is important but some struggle to make it part of family life with young children.

95% of families

know it's important to read with their child but only

42% of children

have a bedtime story.

BookTrust Family Survey 2022

An analysis of studies involving over 1,000 children has shown that shared reading enhances children's language skills

In the news this week

Motorists in Britain could be completing journeys using driverless cars by 2026 the transport secretary, Mark Harper, has predicted. He believes that fully autonomous vehicles, in which people become passengers in their own cars, will arrive in the UK that year and follow a gradual rollout. The government introduced a bill in a speech by King Charles III that paved the way for autonomous cars, without a safety driver, after pressure from industry, MPs, and Sir Patrick Vallance in his recent review of technology regulation.

Things to talk about at home ...

- > Do you think you would like to travel in a self-driving vehicle?
- > Make a list of the positives and negatives of self-driving vehicles.
- > Do you believe we will see more self-driving vehicles on the roads over the next few years?
